of buyers say the quality of the neighborhood is the top factor that influences their choice.

Between the ages of 18 and 45, the average American will move five to six times.

Change isn't always easy.

Fear of the unknown, the cost, the effort — there's a lot to think about. You may be worried about how your kids will adapt to a new school or feel about leaving their friends and activities. It's also hard to leave a place where you've made memories and feel comfortable.

Taking the First Steps

Change can be overwhelming but taking these initial steps can help.

- 📍 Get on the same page as your spouse, partner and/or family members.
- 📍 Research commute times, or drive times to kids' activities, shops, etc.
- 📍 Get informed on all that's involved.
- 📍 Get to know the community via social media and by talking to locals.
- 📍 Check out school districts and neighborhood amenities.

As a local real estate agent, I'm here to help you with any questions you may have on the specifics of the communities and neighborhoods I serve. I also belong to a network of top real estate professionals, and I can connect you to one wherever you're looking to go.
